Absent: Spencer Wren, Marc Straub, Tim Haas

Introductions – Task Force members introduced themselves.

Update on Chris Lieber – Aimee Cox reported that Chris Lieber will be leaving his position as the Manager of Design and development for the Colorado Springs Parks, Recreation and Cultural Services to join Kezziah Watkins. This move is in no way tied to this project and the proposal selection.

Consultant Presentation – Tapis and Kezziah Watkins presented their project proposal to the Task Force. This involved a team of six recreation specialists working on three aspects of the project. These are parking and traffic, the trail, trailhead, and surrounding site design, and finally the operations and marketing management plan of the Incline.

Review of Roles and Responsibilities – Aimee Cox led the attendees through the roles and responsibilities of the Task Force, staff, and consultants as a reminder of how each group fits into the project.

Process Roles – Tweed Kezziah and Aimee Cox presented a list of “Proposed Task Force Process Roles” - opportunities for the Task Force to assist with specific tasks related to the Incline study and planning. Task Force members were asked to identify areas where they might want to get more involved. At the next meeting, the consultant team will provide members with descriptions and a schedule for the different tasks.
